

Dear Chairman Powell and FCC members:

I am finding it less and less possible to hear and read varying viewpoints in the American media. There is little that is different from the "Administration line." I believe that much of that is because so much of the major media is owned by a few huge conglomerates. I do not believe that cross-ownership of media (e.g. a newspaper and a radio station) serves the American public well. I urge you not to repeal the regulation against cross-ownership.

Thank you.
